

CHATEAU MUSAR WHITE 1975

A golden amber colour with a good resemblance to falling leaves in winter.

A smell of honey, wax and smokiness with matured white prunes and pears, and notes of caramel and toffee.

The palate is round and mellow with dominance of honey and caramel, toasted bread, matured plums and white prunes with a surprising acidity that gives to the wine an astonishing acidity.

“My whites are my reds: if you can give them more time, they will give you more joy”.
